Job Description

Overview

The Global Operations Office at Tufts University sits within the Finance Division and reports to the University Controller. The Global Operations Office provides International Travel Health, Safety, and Security, and Global Operations support to all Tufts campuses and community members and is committed to providing expertise and guidance to reduce internal infrastructure barriers for Tufts faculty, staff, and students undertaking research, projects, or programs abroad.

The Finance Division is a key department in the central administration of the university and is responsible for the treasury, purchasing, budgeting, accounting, bursar, payables and post-award grant administration for this doctoral research university.

What You'll Do

The Assistant Director, International Health and Safety is charged with proactively addressing and mitigating the university's exposure related to international activities, specifically focusing on the health and safety, and emergency response component. This position manages the university systems and policies related to international travel safety, leads the preparation of university travelers, and manages the university's response to critical incidents, impacting individuals and groups, overseas. This position reports to the Director of Global Operations and works closely with key campus partners involved in global programming at Tufts.

Essential Functions:

Health, Safety, and Security Support to International Travel and Programs:

- Manage the development, implementation, and communication of health, safety, and security policies and resources to support international programs including global education, global service-learning, registered student organization travel, global research projects, and business travel.
- Collaborate with campus partners to design and implement health, safety, and security policies, resources, and tools to support their international activities.
- Implement the university-wide global assistance and medical benefits program and manage the university's relationship with its assistance provider.
- Serve as campus subject matter expert on health, safety, security, and risk management for international activities

Health, Safety, and Security Risk Monitoring and Assessment:

- Actively monitor global events, assess potential impact on university activities, recommend mitigation measures, and communicate with travelers and administrators as appropriate.
- Conduct research and write a variety of international health, safety, and security briefings for individual travelers, programs, travel review committee, and senior leadership.
- Contribute to the review of high-risk travel proposals through analysis of health, safety, and security risk and mitigation plans.
- Make recommendations to international programs and individual travelers regarding health, safety, and security plans.
- Chair the university's international travel review committee.
- Stay abreast of industry best practices related to international health, safety, and security in higher education

Travel Registration Systems and Data Administration:

- Manage the university travel registration system including processing trip registrations, providing user support, and developing and improving workflows and content.
- Collaborate with vendor(s) to optimize system performance.
- Serve as primary point of contact to travel registry system vendor for tracking and resolving service issues, enhancement, and upgrades
- Analyze data to track trends and produce internal and external reports
