transformative opportunity it provides to a large and diverse student body; its public mission and commitment to equity and social justice; and its roots in the California experience, animated by such values as innovation, questioning the status quo, and respect for the environment and nature. Since its founding in 1868, Berkeley has fueled a perpetual renaissance, generating unparalleled intellectual, economic and social value in California, the United States and the world.

We are looking for equity-minded applicants who represent the full diversity of California and who demonstrate a sensitivity to and understanding of the diverse academic, socioeconomic, cultural, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation, and ethnic backgrounds present in our community. When you join the team at Berkeley, you can expect to be part of an inclusive, innovative and equity-focused community that approaches higher education as a matter of social justice that requires broad collaboration among faculty, staff, students and community partners. In deciding whether to apply for a position at Berkeley, you are strongly encouraged to consider whether your values align with our Guiding Values and Principles, our Principles of Community, and our Strategic Plan.

At UC Berkeley, we believe that learning is a fundamental part of working, and our goal is for everyone on the Berkeley campus to feel supported and equipped to realize their full potential. We actively support this by providing all of our staff employees with at least 80 hours (10 days) of paid time per year to engage in professional development activities. Reporting to the Dean of the Berkeley School of Information ("I School"), the Assistant Dean of External Affairs & Development (AD) holds a key leadership role in a globally respected academic organization. The AD is tasked with developing goals, priorities, and the strategy for, and delivery of, fundraising, marketing and communications and alumni engagement activities and outcomes for the School of Information. Working closely with the Dean and senior leadership team, the AD establishes philanthropic priorities for the school and faculty, directs programs and services for alumni and donor engagement, and oversees a comprehensive marketing and communications team. This position currently manages a team of 4 positions and serves as a liaison internally and across campus. The AD, External Affairs & Development reports to the Dean with a dotted line to the Associate Vice Chancellor (AVC) of Constituent Programs (CP), University Development & Alumni Relations (UDAR).

Scope of the Position

The Assistant Dean of External Affairs & Development (AD) manages a comprehensive fundraising program for the Berkeley School of Information, as well as identifies, builds, nurtures, and maintains effective relationships with external constituencies. Responsibilities involve managing a staff of 4 full-time positions that oversee fundraising, alumni relations, donor and external events, alumni and donor conferences, public relations, marketing, and communications for the School of Information. There is the opportunity for the next AD to further build their team and a strategic fundraising and external affairs program leveraging existing successes and structure; the next AD may collaborate with the Dean and other senior leaders in the I School on considering long-term goals for the I School and pivoting fundraising and external affairs strategies to support. The AD is charged with designing and delivering the foundation for life-long relationships with alumni and friends who have the passion, dedication, and capacity to make a transformational impact at the School of Information and UC Berkeley. The AD creates and implements strategies to maximize support from all sources, including major gifts, corporate giving, planned giving, and annual giving. To that end, the AD, External Affairs & Development oversees donor cultivation and solicitations, stewardship and renewal, as well as serving as a primary point of contact for key relationships. The AD provides oversight and direction to the design and administration of the School's major gifts program, the discovery, identification and cultivation of prospects, and the annual fund and stewardship activities. The AD maintains a portfolio of donors and prospects and is the primary proxy for and liaison to the Dean for donors. Additionally, the AD is charged with strategic oversight of marketing and communications and alumni relations. In concert with the marketing and communications lead, as well as the alumni relations lead, the AD leads the design and development of all marketing, communication, and messaging activities for the School of Information. The AD serves on the Leadership Team and reports to Dean. A member of the Campaign Management Team, this role also serves as the primary liaison to UDAR and leads all collaborative fundraising activities for the School of Information. Once established, the position will be
