Posting Detail Information

Position Summary

Campus Living is accepting applications for the Director of Residential Capital Project Planning, Design, and Construction(FPMO - Facilities Planning and Management Officer). In this role, you will lead a dynamic and diverse staff providing direction to the establishment and oversight of capital and renewal projects. You will direct the planning, development, implementation, and management of renewal, renovation, and new construction projects in support more than 2.5 million square feet of space over two campus locations. Student Life houses over 7,500 students in 13 residence halls and 5 apartment complexes annually.

In this role, the functional areas of responsibility within the housing operations team include development of short and long-term project scheduling and financial planning, scope development, design development, coordination with the Dormitory Authority of the State of New York (DASNY) for both project funding and project management, assuring stakeholder and campus partner coordination, contractor engagement and management, and project closeout. The incumbent shall be responsible for setting employee and/or group goals, workforce planning, training and assessment. It will be an expectation to employ a variety of leadership strategies and interact consistently with housing management and staff, contractors, vendors, stakeholders, and students. In this role, you will provide leadership for and supervision of approximately three direct and indirect report staff, including Associate/Assistant Directors and Managers for project planning and management. You will oversee an annual average capital and operational projects budget of approximately $40 million dollars.

Your responsibilities include:

- Direct the long-term capital improvements, renovations, and new construction in support of the housing master plan.
- Develop, administer, and implement Capital Projects policies and procedures related to the Housing Operations organization.
- Direct administration of Housing Capital Projects, including project initiation, design, engagement of PM, schedule, stakeholder involvement, in-house project management, and close-out.
