Departmental Overview

Office of the Vice Chancellor for Research (VCRO)

The Office of the Vice Chancellor for Research has overall managerial responsibility for Berkeley's research enterprise and facilitates interdisciplinary research across the university with a focus on supporting overall research excellence and new emerging ideas as well as the most promising approaches to innovation and entrepreneurship. It seeks to maintain a research environment that fosters creativity, collaboration and community. Its specific goals are to provide effective support for campus-wide research efforts; to advocate for research needs and resources; and to maximize the benefits of Berkeley's research to the scholarly community and the general public. In support of these goals, the Office of the Vice Chancellor for Research oversees over fifty research institutes, centers, museums, and field stations; administers the flow of research funding to the Berkeley campus; ensures the compliance of campus research with federal, state and university regulations; and facilitates relations between University researchers and private industry. A vibrant set of innovation and entrepreneurship activities is an important part of the Vice Chancellor for Research's portfolio. UC Berkeley is ranked #1 in the world for venture-backed startups, founders, and female entrepreneurs.

Position Overview

The Director of Development will work across a broad spectrum of innovation and entrepreneurship activities, including social entrepreneurship. This arena has seen vast growth in recent years that is supported by private philanthropy. Reporting to the Chief Development Officer, the Director of Development is responsible for helping to develop fundraising strategies and working in close collaboration with fundraising staff across the campus. The Fundraiser 4 maintains an active portfolio of donor prospects, focusing on individuals capable of giving $100K or more.
