relevant and current instruction.

About Auburn University: Auburn University is one of the nation's premier land-grant institutions and was ranked 42nd among public universities in the 2022 edition of U.S. News & World Report. Auburn is an "R1: Doctoral Universities - Very high research activity" institution, offering Bachelor's, Professional, Master's, Educational Specialist, and Doctoral degrees. Auburn has 1,443 full-time faculty and enrolls 31,526 students from all fifty states and nearly one hundred countries, including 5,510 graduate students and 1,085 professional students.

Rooted in more than 160 years of tradition, Auburn University occupies 1,841 acres and is the academic home to more than 30,000 students. Auburn's commitment to active student engagement and professional success, and public/private partnerships garners a growing reputation for outreach and extension that delivers broad economic, health, and societal impact.

Auburn University has a commitment to providing a welcoming, respectful, and inclusive environment for all to thrive. Several initiatives have been implemented with an overarching goal of establishing and maintaining a culture of equity, diversity, and inclusiveness. For example, Auburn has compiled its five-year strategic plan with those from across its colleges, the Presidential Task Force for Equity and Opportunity, and the Office of Inclusion and Diversity with key goals that work to create a campus that is equitable for students, faculty, and staff from all backgrounds. Auburn places a heavy focus on recruitment and retention that creates a robust and diverse employee base.

Graduate Executive Programs: Known for having some of the longest-running and most innovative graduate distance education programs in the country, the Harbert College of Business has a full suite of nationally-ranked graduate executive programs including an Executive MBA Program (EMBA), a Physician's Executive MBA Program (PEMBA), and the Masters in Real Estate Development Program (MRED) which is joint program between the Harbert College of Business and the College of Architecture, Design, and Construction.

All three executive programs, designed for mid- to late-career business professionals, use a blended format which combines online learning with short on-campus residencies. Fortune ranked Harbert's EMBA program as the #21 public program in the U.S., Healthcare Management ranked Harbert's PEMBA as the #9 top EMBA in Healthcare Program, and Intelligent has ranked Auburn's MRED program as the #1 Best Master's in Real Estate Degree Programs the last two years running.

Location: Auburn, Alabama is a vibrant and thriving college town and community. Southern Living recently recognized the city of Auburn as one of the top small towns in the South and Money magazine named Auburn as the best place to live in Alabama. Known as the 'Loveliest Village on the Plains,'
